

TIME

THE MOST FASHIONABLE NEW WATCHES

HIS AND HERS

Latest timepiece trend allows men and women to wear the same watch

IF YOU'RE LOOKING FOR EVIDENCE that blurred gender distinctions are here to stay, just take a peek at some of the newest offerings from the world of elite watchmaking. The prevalence of models with unisex style — offered in a wide range of sizes — means it's time to rethink traditional boundaries between men's and women's watches. — STORY BY TANYA DUKES

Like what you see here? Tell them you saw it in INDESIGN!

1

A capsule of watches from Glashütte Original pays tribute to the 1960s with touches like curved Arabic numerals. The sophisticated dégradé effect of the dial — five colors are available — comes from hand application of layer after layer of lacquer and a finishing coat that gives each piece a unique surface. glashuette-original.com

39mm Glashütte Original Sixties Iconic in stainless steel and Louisiana alligator strap with automatic movement, $7,500

2

Poised to join a stable of iconic watches that includes the Tank and Santos, Clé de Cartier marks a major introduction for the maison. It features the newest in-house movement from Cartier and a standout feature that gives the family of timepieces its name: The sapphire-set crown pivots like a key, which translates to "clé" in French. cartier.us

35mm Clé de Cartier with self-winding mechanical movement in 18K rose gold and steel, $8,300

3

With its unassailably elegant good looks, it's not surprising that IWC's Portofino collection has always had a following among both men and women. Its new 37mm size — the smallest variation yet — will only extend its appeal to women buyers and men craving a not-so-big watch. iwc.com

37mm IWC Portofino Automatic Moon Phase with a stainless steel case and white mother-of-pearl dial featuring 12 diamonds on a green alligator strap, $8,500

4

As its name suggests, Slim d'Hermès features a super thin movement (2.6mm high) that burrishes the brand's reputation for having serious horological prowess. It's no slouch on the style front, either. The dial, created by graphic designer Philippe Apeloig, features original typography to mark the hours. hermes.com

39.5mm Slim d'Hermès in rose gold with opaline dial, matte alligator strap and H1950 ultra-thin movement, $18,500

so chic!

5

The Fifty Five is the first-ever unisex watch from Louis Vuitton and is available in three sizes: 31mm, 36mm and 41mm. It's named for the number spelled by the brand's LV initials when read as Roman numerals (LV=55) and incorporates details from the high flying travel brand's trunks, like a winding crown that resembles the head of a rivet. us.louisvuitton.com

41mm Louis Vuitton Fifty Five watch on a steel bracelet, $6,550

